

Pursuing Master's Degree in Oncology Nursing

Principal Investigator: Jennifer M. Tornatta, BSN

Dates of Support: 2006-2008

Funding Agency: American Cancer Society

Abstract

The education and training I will receive at the Indiana University School of Nursing will provide me with the advanced knowledge I need to properly care for patients diagnosed with cancer in adulthood. My experience over the past seven years has allowed me to have a personal and professional view on cancer and the effects a diagnosis can have on all involved. I plan to use my education and experience to develop better ways to provide cancer treatment and to help diminish the number of diagnosis through prevention research and better screening. A long-term goal would be to develop a research program involving young women and breast cancer research.

Performance Site(s)

Indiana University School of Nursing
Indianapolis, Indiana

Key Personnel:

Jennifer M. Tornatta, BSN

IU School of Nursing

Principal Investigator

Janet S. Carpenter, PhD, RN

IU School of Nursing

Sponsor